

ABSTRACT

A system and method for monitoring the operational condition of a motor vehicle using a silhouette and pupil defining device combined with a capability to analyze and track any changes of the operator's silhouette and of the size, shape and location of the operator's pupils within a defined zone in the motor vehicle.